Here in Elizabeth Park, we've settled into the stillness of July. The varieties of trees in the park are buzzing with life as the humidity hangs in the air. Unlike June when the Rose Garden is in full-bloom, the park is much quieter and peaceful. Even though most of the roses have peaked and passed, the Perennial and Annual Gardens are well underway and showing off. With a little luck, a little love and a lot of deadheading, we may enjoy more blooms through early Fall.
